One step, two step

Teacher notes

A resource where students can naturally find themselves using inductive reasoning without needing to be formal about it. It's possible to tackle this one using knowledge of binomial coefficients, but there's a more elegant approach that students can find by studying smaller numbers of stairs and building up.

Last updated 20-Jan-16